YNHALD
DETECT & CARE

PRESS RELEASE · ORLANDO, FL · NOVEMBER 2026

Who is watching your suppliers between audits? Ynhald launches supplier monitoring as a managed service in the U.S.

Most companies check a supplier once, at onboarding, and then once a year with a questionnaire. With Ynhald Care, Orlando-based Ynhald Corp. takes over the ongoing monitoring of suppliers as a service – including alerts with an assessment and a recommendation, and evidence for audits and customers. Companies can start with a free pilot.

Customers, auditors and insurers increasingly ask companies to show that they know the risks in their supply chain – not only on the day a supplier was approved, but on an ongoing basis. A new owner, a sanctions listing, a cyberattack or a product recall at a supplier can affect delivery, compliance and reputation within days.

In practice this rarely fails for lack of will, but for lack of time. Supplier reviews are spread across purchasing, quality and IT, and what happens between two annual reviews often goes unnoticed until it is too late.

Ynhald Care is designed for exactly this gap. Companies send a list of their suppliers – name and country are enough. The Ynhald team monitors them continuously across up to 16 areas, from ownership and sanctions to cybersecurity, certificates, recalls and concentration risk; insolvency and company registry monitoring are available for suppliers in Europe and the UK. Important changes are reported right away, with an assessment and a recommended next step. Every quarter, clients receive an evidence report they can show to auditors, regulators and their own customers. On request, alerts and reports flow directly into the client's ERP, ticketing or ISMS system.

> “Our clients don't want another piece of software they have to run themselves. They want to know that someone is watching – and to be able to prove it when an auditor or a customer asks. That is what we deliver.”

Suppliers are not buried in long questionnaires. Existing evidence such as ISO 27001 or SOC 2 reports is reused, and Ynhald asks targeted questions only where important information is missing. Companies can start with a free, no-obligation pilot.
